

The Alliance Center for Leadership Development (ACLD)

Announcement

The Alliance Center for Leadership Development (ACLD) is a new office within Church Ministries of the C&MA. ACLD replaces the Office of Ministry Studies. The Alliance Center for Leadership Development serves as a hub for leadership development and ministry preparation for those interested in serving or who already serve with The Christian and Missionary Alliance but need additional training, development, or certification.

Meet our New Brand

Like the former Ministerial Studies Program, or MSP, the ACLD offers online courses and programs of study designed to prepare new workers for ministry leadership while enriching current ministry leaders. For more information about ACLD for you or someone you know who is interested in ministry preparation education, go to www.allianceleaders.org. Prospective students can learn about what the ACLD offers, apply to the School of Ministry (SOM), or sign up for an Alliance Polity or Missions course—all from one user-friendly and language-adaptive website.

We are excited to begin this journey with our Alliance brothers and sisters who are committed to reaching the lost and discipling the saved all for the glory of God.
