Design, Not Redesign:
Making Online Content Accessible

Monday, April 17, 2017 @ Nevada State College

1300 Nevada State Drive, Henderson, NV – Room:  NSE 254

Learn how to create accessible online content to ensure accessibility to your course content.  Beth Case, Program Manager for Digital Emerging and Assistive Technologies and creator of Disability 411, a podcast highlighting disability issues, will be on campus to present two FREE 3-hour workshops.  Each workshop includes two hours of instruction followed by one hour of hands-on application.

During this workshop, you will:
- Discuss laws that support accessible online content;
- Explore and practice strategies for making online content accessible;
- Utilize the strategies learned to produce accessible online content;
- Learn about resources to help produce accessible online content;
- Explore why it is more pragmatic to utilize Universal Design and design accessible online content.

Beth Case has a B.A. in Psychology, M.A. in Clinical Psychology, M.Ed. in Instructional Technology

Register for one session:  9 a.m. – noon or 1 p.m. – 4 p.m.
This workshop is open to all faculty, administrators, and staff at Nevada State College and faculty, administrators and staff at NV AHEAD institutions.
Contact Sandi Patton to reserve your space and to request accommodations:
sandi.patton@nsc.edu or call 702-992-2182

Co-sponsored by: