

Wednesday, October 19

Trinity Episcopal Church 580 Forest Avenue
6:30 p.m.

The 2016
Butterfield
Memorial Series is proud to offer
the Portland Community an evening of hearing about & celebrating Maine's New Americans.

REZA JALALI

Reza Jalali is a writer, educator, and a Muslim Scholar, who has taught courses at the University of Southern Maine and Bangor Theological Seminary. He is the Coordinator of the Office of Multicultural Student Affairs at USM and advisor to the Muslim Student Association at Bowdoin College. In exile from Iran, Reza Jalali, who works closely with the immigrant community in Southern Maine, will talk about Maine's New Americans.

The Pihcintu Chorus

Portland's Pihcintu Chorus, which is made up of young women from as many as 17 different countries, will open the program on October 19. The chorus sings under the direction of Grammy winner and founder of the choir, Con Fullam.

A RECEPTION

follows the program. Mr. Jalali has agreed to autograph books which may be purchased at the reception. The Pihcintu Chorus will also have CDs for sale. Questions: Call 772-7421.

This event is FREE to the public. Free-will donations are always gratefully received and are used to help perpetuate the Butterfield Series. Seating is limited and there are NO RESERVED SEATS.

Doors open at 6:15.