DIOCESAN COUNCIL 2021-2023

NEWLY ELECTED
CLERGY REPRESENTATIVES
TO EACH OF SIX (6) AREAS
FOR A TWO (2) YEAR TERM

St. Saviour's, Bar Harbor
St. Francis, Blue Hill
St. Patrick's, Brewer
St. Anne's, Calais
Trinity Church, Castine
St. Brendan's, Deer Isle

Christ Church, Eastport
St. Dunstan's, Ellsworth

St. Aidan's, Machias
St. Mary/St. Jude, Northeast Harbor
St. Andrew & St. John, Southwest Harbor

The Rev. Lynn Rutledge

St. Aidan's, Machias and Christ Church, Eastport

The Rev. Lynn Rutledge has completed one term on Diocesan Council and would enjoy continuing with a second term. Living in Washington County, distant from southern Maine both geographically and culturally, she appreciates this opportunity to take part in the governance of our Diocese and to bring that information to the new Area. She works to help parishioners understand that "we" are the Diocese and that our Diocese is not some entity that functions only from Portland. She has skills in administration and finance, having served as treasurer in two Episcopal churches prior to becoming a priest.

For the Diocese of Maine, she has served on the Commission on Ministry and currently is part of the Wolf-Loring Committee.

Lynn is Rector of St. Aidan's, Machias, and Christ Church, Eastport. She is president of the Eastport area ecumenical association, which operates Labor of Love Food Pantry and Emergency Heating Assistance Fund. This group also presents seasonal ecumenical worship opportunities.

She graduated from University of Houston with a B.A. and received her M.Div. from Episcopal Divinity School in 2014. She lives in Pembroke with her springer spaniel Josie.

The Rev. Thom Rock

Church of the Good Shepherd, Rangeley

The river of the Episcopal Church has always conformed to the various landscapes through which it flows. The newly formed areas of the Diocese of Maine offer an opportunity to wade into those traditional waters in a new way. As someone who discerned a call to ordained ministry in the context of local, mutual ministry in a small, rural Vermont parish, and whose field work as a seminarian was in a mission church in a former ranch town in Texas, one perspective I would bring to council is that the small, rural church is important within the larger community, and that discipleship is measured not in ASA numbers but in vibrancy of ministries and lives lived together. In addition, as a student and teacher of forgiveness, I am a careful listener, and have developed an appreciation for truth-telling and reconciliation, as well as understanding what has happened in the past in order to move more fully into the present and future. I would be honored to work together and on behalf of my colleagues in Area B through the ministry that is Diocesan Council.

Emmanuel, Augusta
St. John's, Bangor
St. Peter's, Bridgton
Christ Church, Gardiner
St. Giles', Jefferson
St. Martin's, Palmyra

Trinity, Lewiston
St. Matthew's, Lisbon Falls
Christ Church, Norway
St. Mark's, Waterville
St. Andrew's, Winthrop

The Rev. Nancy Moore Christ Episcopal Church, Norway

I am finishing a two-year term on Diocesan Council, during which I had the privilege to serve as vice-chair of the Council during the beginning of Bishop Brown's episcopate. Over the past twenty years I have offered my time, energy, skills and gifts to the diocese in a variety of ways: diocesan council with three different bishops; finance committee, during a time of significant budget revision; Standing Committee during an episcopal transition. I have a particular passion for empowering all people to live into their baptismal covenant. It would be my honor to represent the newly-configured Area C and get to know the parishes I will now represent.

The Rev. Lisa Fry

St. Thomas Episcopal Church, Camden

The Rev. Lisa Fry has served for several years as rector of St. Thomas' in Camden, regularly meets with our Episcopal area clergy cohort and with our local interfaith organization, the Mid Coast Interfaith Alliance. She therefore brings familiarity with our region, the clergy and lay leaders from the area, and the concerns of the people of many and no faiths from our region.
