

Emily Keniston announced as new Coordinator of Province One

April 27, 2020

The Executive Committee of Province One is excited to announce the call of Emily Keniston to be the Coordinator of Province One. Emily will begin her ministry in June.

Emily is a member of St. Ann's Episcopal Church in Windham, Maine. She has been actively involved in faith formation for a decade, and most recently served in mission in Tunisia, North Africa.

Emily founded Faith Formation Connect, an online formation coaching program for Province I and served as chairperson of the Maine Christian Education Collaborative. She holds a certificate in Lifelong Christian Formation (jointly awarded by Forma and Virginia Theological Seminary), and degrees in Communication, International Studies, and Education from the University of Southern Maine. She and her family live in Portland, Maine.

Emily specializes in innovative approaches to building community, catalyzing action and addressing emerging issues. "I look forward to celebrating lifelong learning and sharing resources and most especially God's love with all people," she said.

As the Province I Coordinator, Emily looks forward to connecting people who are doing similar work within the province and across the church, and to inspiring collaboration and creativity in the stewardship of resources.

The Executive Committee thanks the members of the Search Committee who worked faithfully over the past several months to bring the search process to a successful conclusion.
