Relationship-Based Care[®] Designation

To develop an organization with a Relationship-Based culture takes passionate, focused work and organizations who do this work deserve validation and recognition. Relationship-Based Care Designation validates an organization's commitment to creating and advancing their Relationship-Based Care culture through excellence in leadership, teamwork, professional practice, system design, and patient and family centered care delivery. Enculturation of Relationship-Based Care principles and values are achieved through relationships, structures, and processes which lead to excellence in care and sustained improvement in outcomes.

LEVELS of DESIGNATION

Organizations choosing to pursue Relationship-Based Care Designation can select from two levels of designation. The Relationship-Based Care Designation period is granted for four years.

Relationship-Based Care Designation

validates the organization has met the basic criteria to demonstrate enculturation of Relationship-Based Care principles and values.

Relationship-Based Care Designation with Distinction

validates the organization has enculturated the values and principles of Relationship-Based Care beyond nursing and patient care services and the organization supports enculturation of RBC principles and values by offering formal Creative Health Care Management (CHCM) licensed programs (Re-Igniting the Spirit of Caring, Leading and Empowered Organization, and/or See Me as a Person).
