

On – Time Construction, LLC

Located in Jackson, Miss., On-Time Construction is owned and operated by Terry Ledbetter. The firm specializes in excavation, survey layout, rebar, metal framing, acoustic drywall, and painting. Ledbetter and his team take pride in customer satisfaction. Honesty and integrity are the company's core principles.

Growing up, Ledbetter developed a passion for carpentry while working with his father as a young boy. "My dad provided me with the opportunity to learn the craft of trim carpentry but most of all he encouraged and inspired me to be the best that I could be," explained Ledbetter. He went on to become a laborer at a construction firm and quickly moved his way up from being a carpenter assistant, lead carpenter then a construction surveyor. After working as a surveyor for some time, Ledbetter decided that he was ready to branch out on his own and become an entrepreneur.

Ledbetter has built a good reputation with other contractors and clients.

On-Time Construction has worked with the following contractors that include but are not limited to Bennett Painting, Cleotha Nichols Remodeling, Cornerstone Engineering, J L Interiors Construction, and R Weathersby Construction. Some of the firm's past projects entailed the Southland Gaming & Racing Resort in West Memphis Arkansas with Roy Anderson as the prime contractor, Webster County Courthouse (Walthall, MS), and The Outlets of Mississippi (Flowood, MS). Currently, On-Time Construction is providing services to private clients in the Jackson area. In reference to future projects, Ledbetter plans to submit bid for projects with the Jackson Public School District.

Ledbetter explained what sets his business apart from other companies. "We believe in a hostile-free work environment and a solid commitment to community involvement. With over 40 years of experience in dealing with complex projects, we focus on exceptional customer service while using cutting-edge technology and are committed to excellence," said Ledbetter.

As a seasoned entrepreneur, his essential advice is to network as much as possible and attend events where you can promote your company and most of all, never give up.

For all of your construction needs contact Terry Ledbetter at 601-720-1044 or send correspondence to t.ledbetter1ontimeconstruction@gmail.com.

A MISSISSIPPI SUCCESS STORY

Prestige Cleaning Service

Nikki Rivers is the proud owner of Prestige Cleaning Service, located in Jackson, Miss. Established in 2014, the firm offers janitorial services to commercial, governmental, and private clients. Rivers is committed to providing timely and exceptional cleaning services to her clients.

Rivers has continued to build relationships with clients and contractors. She makes sure to market her business wherever and whenever possible which has helped her business grow. "I've never been a shy person. When I started my business, I knew that I could use this to my advantage because to have a successful business you must be a go getter and be willing to network so people can know who you are, where you're located and what you do," explained Rivers.

One of the firm's largest projects included final cleanup during the site preparation phase then everyday cleaning for Amazon (Canton, MS). Another large project successfully completed by Prestige Cleaning Service entailed the final cleanup for the Sheraton Hotel (Flowood, MS) with Copeland John as the prime contractor. Currently, Prestige Cleaning Service is providing services to the Jackson Convention Center and other local gyms and clinics around the Jackson area. In reference to future jobs, Rivers plans to bid projects in her area of expertise.

Rivers strives use her business as a positive platform to help others. "I'm not doing all of this for myself. I have a passion for empowering, instilling knowledge, and investing in those who want to one day become an entrepreneur," said Rivers. She has given her nieces and nephews an opportunity to shadow her and gain experience so that they know how to be hard workers as well as be knowledgeable about running a business.

Over the past year, Rivers said that her business has grown because she has hires additional staff that are reliable and help her get each job done in an efficient and professional manner. In addition, she has seen an increase in contracts and revenue.

Rivers shared strategies and actions that have been vital in sustaining and maintaining a successful business. She said that you have to be consistent, keep your word, and most importantly, pay attention to detail.

For all of your cleaning needs contact Niki Rivers at 601-259-6364 or send correspondence to nrivers09@yahoo.com.

OSHA Safety Tip of the Month!

Busting Myths That Keep Workers Silent About Workplace Stress

Talk to your supervisor or human resources representative about the stressors you may be facing. Is something holding you back? Are you worried about being judged? If so, let's set the record straight:

MYTHS	FACTS
Stress or mental health struggles are a sign of weakness.	We have great respect for your willingness to speak openly about your experience. We view it as a sign of your strength.
Raising concerns about workplace stress is frowned upon.	We want to hear from you. We want to brainstorm with you to identify ideas for improving the support we provide workers.
This is not the time to “make waves” if you are stressed about your personal safety at work. Instead, you should just buckle down and accept that management is doing the best it can.	We want you to speak up. Your health and safety is our number one priority. We need you to be our “eyes and ears” and alert us to problems that need correction. Staying silent could jeopardize worker safety and health.
You need to keep your personal life separate from work. If you cannot find a way to balance your work and personal responsibilities, step aside so we can find someone who can.	We will work with you to incorporate as much flexibility as we can to help you juggle work and your caregiving responsibilities.
