

Our Hero Brad Wells!

On Sunday afternoon, my wife Nadia dropped her iPhone into the harbor water in an unfortunate accident. The phone had a lot of critical information on it.

She was very upset, and it impacted me as well. I decided to go to the Hartge Yacht Harbor office to find someone for help. We didn't get our hopes up, we just wanted to make sure we tried to do something. The water in the West River mouth is not clear and about 11-12 feet deep. The most concerning thing is a 3-4+ feet of deep, black mud on the bottom of the river. It was already Sunday evening, nobody was in the office, but I met Brad Wells, our new Harbormaster here outside of the building and explained to him the situation. Brad said that it's Sunday evening and his ability to find any suitable trapping device is very limited at this time and maybe he can do more on Monday morning.

Brad came to our slip in the morning with a strainer and a long pole and within about 3 minutes he found Nadia's phone and brought it back to the cockpit.

The Phone was ON and... working!!! The iPhone survived after almost 20 hours in the water, without any special waterproof jacket.

I have been a Samsung user for many years, but now I might change my opinion the next time I buy another phone for myself.

We would like to take a moment to say such a BIG THANKS to Brad Wells. He is a super responsible person, and we are thankful for his incredible, well-done job.
