New Christmas Musical
“Hope of the Broken World”
Coming to Pawtucket

Pawtucket –The public is invited to enjoy a brand new Christmas Musical “Hope of the Broken World” on Sunday, December 3 at 4:30pm at Smithfield Avenue Congregational Church, 514 Smithfield Avenue, Pawtucket.

Hope of the Broken World is the newest Christmas musical from David T. Clydesdale and Clydesdale Music Group and was created by Dave Clark and David T. Clydesdale, This new musical is bursting with good news and great joy through a variety of music styles and thoughtful narration in a truly unforgettable Christmas worship experience.

Titled after the song made popular by Selah, Hope of the Broken World is a glorious mixture of more traditional SATB choral works in "Let There Be Joy" and "Sing We Gloria," the innocence of children's voices in the ever popular "A Strange Way to Save the World," the hauntingly beautiful "Who Could Imagine a King?," the fun gospel styling of "When the Little Baby Boy Was Born" and "O Bethlehem Mornin'." There are a total of 12 songs, one of which features two children singing as Mary and Joseph and there is also congregation participation at times.

The concert will feature the singing of One-Voice a local Christian musical group led by Sandra Baldwin. Since beginning in 2007 and recording a song on Sandra's album, "Just a Cup of Water," churches throughout New England have been thrilled by their sound. Sandra Baldwin has been directing choirs and ensembles since she was just 17 years old. She has taken groups on tour from New England to Canada and New York.
