Music matters. It's a basic human need, an important way to not only express emotions, but also to connect with them. We find so many ways to isolate ourselves and disconnect from the Earth, each other, and our true selves.

The Wound in the Water traces the journey from a sense of isolation to a healing shared song—what we're doing, literally and metaphorically, whenever we sing.

Also on the program: Inter Natos Mulierum, a bright, intriguing offertory for the Feast Day of John the Baptist, written by a teenaged Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart.
