When the Village of Bloomington purchased the 70-year old Glendale Golf Course in 1996, they made a commitment to create a challenging course with outstanding amenities within a country club setting. From the start, the Village hired a PGA professional to manage operations and to provide golf lessons for players of all abilities. To make the course more challenging, four holes were redesigned and a practice facility was opened in 2002. A 5,000 square foot putting green is also available to perfect your short game along with new riding and pull carts to make playing the game a more comfortable experience. Bloomington Golf Club, an 18-hole, par 71 regulation course, challenges golfers of all levels with its rolling fairways, mature trees, and strategically placed bunkers and water hazards. The watered fairways and state-of-the-art greenskeeping equipment keep the course in beautiful condition throughout the season. The Grotto, the course halfway house, offers a complete selection of snack and beverages to go and is the perfect place to recharge before tackling the back nine. - www.bloomingtongolfclub.com
