Have you heard?

As a fall fundraiser, the United Methodist Women are publishing a cookbook! We need the best, tried and true recipes of all of our disciples for our collection! The recipes do not have to be original, and you can attribute them to the source in the “notes” section at the bottom of the recipe. You will be able to type them directly into the publisher’s app or you can email your recipe to one of the committee members, or put a paper copy in a collection box on top of the mailbox cubbies outside the church office. Further instructions will be coming your way next week, but dust off the recipe file box and pull out your old (or new) family favorites to share!
