Together we can create safe workplaces

#SafetyAndHealthWeek

Join us in observing Occupational Safety and Health Week

The goal of this campaign is to focus employers, employees, partners and the public on the importance of preventing injury and illness in the workplace, at home and in the community. What are you doing to contribute to a safer and healthier work environment?

We asked Lori Craddock, Director of Operations at Safety Express this question.

The past 15 months have created a hyper-awareness of health and safety in our work and home environments. Our teams in each region have been diligent in our cleaning and disinfection protocols as well as social distancing. We have created a series of training videos to outline policies and proper use and care of reusable masks to ensure the safety of our team and our customers.

Aside from the pandemic, we have created a reoccurring segment in our operations meetings called 2-minute safety. During our meeting, a team member brings up a best practice being used in their branch or in their personal lives that could be adopted by the rest of the team. These have addressed things like forklift safety tips to proper lifting techniques, all the way to yard-work safety. Our team have all contributed great tidbits and take pride in keeping health and safety a priority in each of our branches.
