Policy Virtual Event: Zooming in on Telehealth

The COVID-19 pandemic dramatically accelerated the use of telehealth, which has played a vital role in helping individuals maintain continuity of care. Many of the temporary telehealth policy changes made by federal and state policymakers strengthened access and ensured the continued affordability of telehealth services. Now, policymakers must assess the appropriate role of telehealth moving forward.

CareFirst's Policy Team will be presenting a virtual event featuring insights from industry experts on how telehealth and federal/state policy flexibilities enabled access to care during the pandemic.
