

Week of Compassion

This season, honor the Child we all wait for by doing the things Christ taught us. Your gift to Week of Compassion will feed the hungry; shelter those who have survived disasters; or support a refugee family.

Dear Friends,

It's been a difficult year for many. As we celebrate this season and reflect on what really matters, we want to share with those we love - but we know that we won't be able to do that in the ways we typically do. We may not be able to gather in the usual ways, to worship or share meals in person. We may not get to see the joy on a loved one's face when they open the gift we carefully selected for them.

Things are different this year, and maybe we are thinking in fresh ways about how best to share the spirit of the season.

What if you could avoid crowded stores AND share a meaningful gift with loved ones?

Give to Week of Compassion in honor of a loved one, and we will send them a Christmas card to acknowledge that a gift has been made to celebrate with them this season.

Even if it is not "Christmas as usual" this year, we can still be together in meaningful ways. We can make a difference. We can change lives.

We can give joy.
