SB 5368	Stay-at-work program Expanding access to the workers' compensation stay-at-work program through off-site light duty return to work opportunities.	S 2nd Reading	Keiser	Support
	Washington's Stay at Work program, which has proven successful in helping injured workers transition back to the workplace ☐ is limited to only the employer of injury. SB 5368 will allow smaller employers and frontline workers, who may not have light duty work opportunities available for transitioning back to work, to partner with local non-profit organizations to offer light duty volunteer positions. The bill protects injured workers by providing an option to refuse, or terminate, a light duty position with a non-profit without any risk to their benefits and medical care. SB 5368 is triple win --- allows small businesses and more injured workers to access light duty positions, assists injured workers in their transition back to work, and assists local non profits in their efforts to serve their communities. Allows an employer with 100 or fewer employees to offer off-site light duty work to a worker with an established nonprofit organization under the Stay-at-Work Program and to seek reimbursement for certain wages paid the worker and expenditures subject to certain conditions. ☐ Allows the Department of Labor and Industries or the employee of injury to contract with an established return-to-work employment agency for the purpose of offering the work.
