Many individuals entering workforce development programs test below the minimum requirements to enter most career pathway programs.

The Navigators fill this critical role by supporting low-skilled adult learners, identifying the most immediate need, and developing a clear path toward goals of training or employment.

Navigators connect individuals to the appropriate services by leveraging the partnerships in their community. They strengthen these partnerships by participating in monthly meetings at their respective centers, joining groups like the North and SouthWest Literacy Coalitions, and attending community-based events.

Navigators make it easier to access the complex workforce development system.

By supporting individuals of all abilities, backgrounds, and skill levels, Navigators make career pathways accessible in Chicago and Cook County.

Since 2022, Navigators referred over 2,000 individuals to 80+ organizations.
