

Contemplating Our Sacred Story:
Intimacy, Integration and Transformation

Schedule

Monday, October 12, 2020 - 7:00 – 8:30 pm ET

Tuesday through Thursday – 11:00 am -1:00 pm and 3:00 – 4:30 pm

Suggested Donation - $100

We are living through painfully transformative times. Minds are racing, hearts are heavy, and people's bodies are being assaulted by conscious and systemic violence and an unrelenting virus that is perfectly indifferent to the political and cultural divide consuming us. And yet, there are signs that a new world is struggling to be born. A new narrative yearning to be written. What role am I being called to play in this story? Is it even possible to discern meaning and coherence amidst such chaos?

This retreat will explore the current interior landscape of our soul as well as the exterior influences which have both inspired and interfered with its capacity to consent to God's love at the innermost depth of our being. Through direction and group sharing, private reflection and journaling, and short periods of silence, we will be invited to open our hearts and minds to a contemplative vision of humanity which honors the divine call to love oneself and neighbor, and simultaneously compels us to be engaged and hopeful witnesses to God's unfolding creative action in the world.