O merciful and loving God, we bring to you today all those who are suffering or anguished today. You are both righteous and merciful. Make our hearts like yours, that we may have your vision and may know how to touch the lives of all those who suffer.

Nourish these loved ones with patience. Comfort them with an awareness of your goodness. Strengthen the hearts and spirits of those who support them and tend to their needs. Let the light of your love touch them this week with healing and peace.

We also pray today, O loving God, for all those who mourn. Grant them comfort in their memories of love and hope in the truth that their loved ones now see the truth of your Love.

We pray also, at this time, that the hearts of those who are today promoting violence upon your people anywhere might be opened to your touch and moved toward reasoned efforts to work effectively toward your peace and your justice.

We ask this as we ask all things in the name of Jesus, your son, and our brother, and through the power of your Spirit. Amen.
