

Weekly Economic Update

In this week's recap: Stocks hit record peaks, then descend after the Friday release of the June jobs report; further tariffs are planned for European imports.

July 9, 2019

THE WEEK ON WALL STREET

U.S. stock benchmarks opened a new quarter positively. The S&P 500 gained 1.65% in the opening week of July; the Dow Jones Industrial Average, 1.21%; the Nasdaq Composite, 1.94%. Overseas, stocks in developed markets, tracked by MSCI's EAFE index, rose 1.43%.<sup>1-4</sup>

On July 3, the S&P posted its latest record close: 2,995.82. On July 5, stocks fell, slightly, after the Department of Labor released its June employment report.<sup>5</sup>

JOBS REPORT BEATS EXPECTATIONS

Analysts polled by Bloomberg thought the economy would add 160,000 net new jobs in June. Instead, the number was 224,000. The headline unemployment rate ticked up 0.1% to 3.7%; the U-6 rate, including the underemployed, also rose 0.1% to 7.2%.<sup>6</sup>

Before the large June gain was announced, traders were confident that the Federal Reserve would adjust interest rates this summer. This latest hiring data called that confidence into question.

MORE TARIFFS SLATED FOR EUROPEAN GOODS

The federal government plans to levy new import taxes on $4 billion of food and beverages coming from the European Union, the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative said last week. This would complement the tariffs on $21 billion worth of E.U. imports announced in April.<sup>7</sup>

The U.S. and E.U. generate more than $1 trillion in commerce through trade relationships. European exports to the U.S., however, far outweigh U.S. exports to the E.U.<sup>7</sup>

WHAT'S AHEAD

Monday, July 15 will mark the start of the next earnings season. Money-center banks report first, followed by companies from a variety of industries.
