A beautiful new book from the authors of
KENTUCKY HOUSES OF STRATTON HAMMON and
COUNTRY HOUSES OF LOUISVILLE, 1899–1939

Over the course of a half-century career, Gideon Shryock – Kentucky's first formally trained architect – became one of the era's most important architects. The newly released GIDEON SHRYOCK: His Life and Architecture – 1802-1880, authored by Winfrey P. Blackburn, Jr. and R. Scott Gill and published by Butler Books, is the first and definitive book about Shryock. It chronicles the peaks and valleys of the architect's life and work, all within the fascinating historical context of nineteenth-century Kentucky.
