

Nan Gibson
Executive Director
JPMorganChase PolicyCenter

Nan Gibson is Executive Director at the JPMorganChase PolicyCenter. In this role, she leads the Careers & Skills, Second Chance, and Economic Security Net issue portfolios, working to develop and advance evidence-based policy solutions to drive inclusive economic growth by bringing together global expertise, data, research, and philanthropic investments.

Nan works with policy, community, and business leaders to drive effective public policy solutions at all levels of government. She provides policy expertise across a broad range of economic issues and conducts outreach to key stakeholders to build unique partnerships for initiatives related to increasing labor force participation, workforce development, and economic security. She works closely with criminal justice reform leaders to advance policies that lower barriers to employment and create greater economic opportunity for individuals involved in the justice system. Nan developed the strategic framework for and co-leads the corporate recruitment and programmatic work of the Second Chance Business Coalition, a group of more than 50 large companies committed to implementing second chance employment practices and advancement strategies.

She previously served as Chief of Staff and Executive Director for the President's Council of Economic Advisers during the Obama Administration and as Executive Director of the Joint Economic Committee of the U.S. Congress. Prior to public service, Nan was a senior leader and strategist at the Economic Policy Institute, a leading think tank that conducts research on American living standards. She began her career covering Congress, politics, and presidential elections for The New Yorker magazine's Washington columnist and for C-SPAN.
