

ACTION ALERT: Clean Air Needs You!

Allegheny County Council is voting on permit fee increases for polluting industries, Tuesday, Nov 18 @ 5PM at the County Courthouse, 4th Floor – Gold Room.

Matt Mehalik, Executive Director of the Breathe Project, the PIIN Environmental Justice Committee, and other advocates have been pushing for increased permit fees on polluting industries in Allegheny County. Permit fees are the main source of revenue for the Allegheny County Health Department, who is tasked with monitoring air quality. This vote is a critical step toward holding polluters accountable and improving our air quality.

We need to show the County Council that the people of Allegheny County care deeply about clean air and environmental justice. A packed room sends a powerful message, we care. We're watching. We demand better.

Let's fill the Gold Room and make our voices heard. The air we breathe depends on it.
