

Medical Director of Lung Transplantation Program

The University of Chicago: Biological Sciences Division: Department of Medicine

Location

Chicago, IL

Description

The University of Chicago's Department of Medicine, Section of Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine, is searching for a full-time faculty member to serve as the Medical Director of Lung Transplantation Program. This role would partner closely with the surgical director and all transplant pulmonologists and surgeons to provide optimal care, innovation, and programmatic growth. The appointee will focus on clinical leadership of the program and dedicate significant time in outreach efforts to grow the lung transplant program. Clinical responsibilities will include both inpatient and outpatient responsibilities in lung transplantation. Other duties will include teaching and supervision of trainees and students, and scholarly activity. Academic rank and compensation (including a generous package of fringe benefits) are dependent upon qualifications.

The University of Chicago Medicine has been at the forefront of medical care since 1927. Located in historic Hyde Park, the primary medical campus includes the Center for Care and Discovery, Comer Children's Hospital, Bernard A. Mitchell Hospital for adult inpatient care, and the Duchossois Center for Advanced Medicine (DCAM) totaling more than 550 beds in service and net patient care revenues over $1.4 billion. New ambulatory facilities are located in Orland Park and the South Loop, and the Ingalls Health System has recently been integrated into the network.

Prior to the start of employment, qualified applicants must: 1) have a medical doctorate or equivalent, 2) hold or be eligible for medical licensure in the State of Illinois, 3) be Board Certified or Eligible in pulmonary diseases and critical care medicine, 4) have training in lung transplant, and 5) be able to perform outpatient procedures including bronchoscopy.
