

NewYork-Presbyterian and Weill Cornell Medicine are conducting a search for the leadership position as Chair of Pediatrics, Weill Cornell Medicine and Chief of Pediatrics, NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell. In this dual role, the physician executive will lead and ensure the excellence of the educational, scientific and clinical programs within the Department of Pediatrics at NYP/Weill Cornell Medicine. He/she will have overall responsibility for operations and strategy in Pediatrics across the organization. This individual will also oversee the growth and development of areas of excellence and outstanding clinical programs and will support clinical and translational research while sustaining the department's excellent reputation and NIH funding position. This position will have opportunities to collaborate closely with the Chair of Pediatrics at Columbia University Vagelos College of Physicians and Surgeons to advance child health under the NYP system and support its trajectory on the honor role of children's hospitals.

This position represents an opportunity to lead a complex department at an Ivy League institution which is regarded for their clinical quality, research, education and mission orientation, while continuing to build out broader clinical services and increase collaborations with NYP's growing network.
