

Director of Obstetric Anesthesia | University of California, San Francisco

Join a team of highly skilled and visionary leaders at one of the preeminent health sciences institutions in the world

The Department of Anesthesia and Perioperative Care at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF) seeks an outstanding individual as Director of Obstetric Anesthesia. The successful candidate will have a national reputation as a leader in the areas of patient care, medical education, and research, as well as exceptional administrative and organizational skills.

Applicants must be board certified or equivalent in Anesthesiology, fellowship-trained or equivalent in obstetrical anesthesia, with a solid track record of management and leadership. We prefer candidates who can demonstrate national recognition of excellence in leadership, administration, organization and program development of clinical services, research, and education in a complex academic environment. The applicant must have recognized skills in the education of Medical Students, Residents and Fellows.

The position will be appointed at the Associate or Professor rank. UC San Francisco seeks candidates whose experience, teaching, research, or community service has prepared them to contribute to our commitment to diversity and excellence.

San Francisco, California—a city rich in history, economic and business development, scenic surroundings, diverse opportunities for year-round recreation and enjoyment, and an inviting and safe community to live and raise a family.

This is an exciting and unique opportunity to be a contributing leader with one of the preeminent academic health centers in the world while residing in one of the most desirable places to live in the U.S.
