

Vice Chair for Research
Department of Pathology & Laboratory Medicine

Oregon Health & Science University (OHSU), one of the premier research-intensive health science universities in the nation, is seeking a Vice Chair for Research in the Department of Pathology & Laboratory Medicine.

The Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine at OHSU is experiencing rapid growth and evolution under its new Chair, Donna Hansel, MD, PhD. The Department is prioritizing expanding research programs, developing research infrastructure, and recruiting promising physician scientists. To accelerate this expansion, they are seeking a mid-to-senior-level individual to serve as Vice Chair for Research for the Department. The appointee will report to the Chair of the Department of Pathology and Laboratory Medicine

The candidate will be either a physician-scientist or scientist with a proven track record of extramural funding. While the candidate does not need to have a research lab focused solely on cancer per se, they do need to have an interest in a translational application that interfaces with cancer and preferably aligns with the goals and missions of the Knight Cancer Center and the Cancer Early Detection Advanced Research Center (CEDAR), which is a key partner in this recruitment

Qualified candidates will possess a PhD, MD, MD/PhD or an equivalent doctorate level degree or other appropriate terminal degree from an accredited higher education institution and experience that warrants an appointment as an Associate or Full Professor.

In its pursuit to become a multicultural, anti-racist organization, Oregon Health & Science University values a diverse and culturally competent workforce. OHSU is proud of their commitment to being an equal opportunity, affirmative action organization that does not discriminate against applicants on the basis of any protected class status, including disability status and protected veteran status. Women and underrepresented people are explicitly invited to apply. Individuals with diverse backgrounds and those who promote diversity, and a culture of inclusion are encouraged to apply. To request reasonable accommodation, contact the Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Department at 503-494-5148 or aaeo@ohsu.edu.
