

Vice President, Montefiore Medical Group

Montefiore invites applications and nominations for the Vice President, Montefiore Medical Group.

This physician leader serves as the top clinical and administrative executive at Montefiore Medical Group (MMG), one of the most comprehensive primary care networks in greater New York City. This individual will lead more than 250 providers and 1000 staff across 20 locations providing affordable, quality primary care, family medicine, pediatric, and women's health services to more than 240,000 patients annually. Montefiore Medical Group is a national leader in innovative urban community care – both for patients and for students/trainees. The Vice President will oversee all MMG strategy, operations, finance, education and teaching, and analytics with the goal of delivering impactful and effective services as primary care models become more complex. This individual will lead efforts (for example) around MMG's nine federally qualified health centers, leading-edge school-based health sites, robust community partnerships, and achieving ongoing operational efficiency and excellence for providers, staff and patients in the practices. This position requires an experienced primary care physician leader who is operationally savvy and strategically minded. This executive is someone who can not only lead daily operations for the medical group, but can create vision, momentum, and followership in new initiatives and strategies. The ideal candidate is well-versed and comfortable building consensus and leading growth in primary care, academic and urban settings with a historic institution in a world-class city.

Montefiore Health System is of New York's premier academic health systems, comprised of 13 hospitals and more than 300 outpatient ambulatory care sites across New York City, Westchester Counties and the Hudson Valley. In partnership with Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Montefiore Health System has represented the future of patient care, science and education for more than 100 years. Today, Montefiore is a $7+ billion health system with 36,000 employees, providing $1.3 billion in community benefits and investments for transformative health initiatives.

Established in 1947, Montefiore Medical Group (MMG) provides close-to-home primary care services to more than 240,000 patients annually. Many MMG sites are members of the Bronx Community Health Network, a Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) and/or participate in Montefiore School Health Program, the largest and most comprehensive school-based health program in the country.

In summary, the Vice President will be a strong physician executive with a deep commitment to primary care operations, finance, innovation and community partnership. They will have a proven track record leading complex care delivery models, and a strong understanding of the rapidly changing urban, primary care landscape. The ideal candidate will have an entrepreneurial spirit and be the catalyst on improvements for patients, providers, learners and staff. They will exhibit the ability to work collaboratively across health system, hospital, community, governmental, business and civic leaders and other pertinent external stakeholders.
