COLLEGE OF MEDICINE

The Ohio State University College of Medicine and Wexner Medical Center seek an exceptional leader with a proven track record in research and innovation to serve as the next Vice Dean for Research. This is an exciting time for a new leader to join our forward-thinking organization. Across OSU campuses, growth, energy, and investment are evident in every aspect of the tripartite mission, and a culture of transformation is pervasive. With a $3 billion expansion underway—including a new comprehensive Innovation District on West Campus, Carmenton, and the recently inaugurated Interdisciplinary Health Sciences Center—we are committed to advancing interdisciplinary research. Additionally, the upcoming 1.9 million-square-foot, 820-bed inpatient hospital tower, set to open in early 2026, exemplifies our dedication to enhancing healthcare and research capabilities. Join us in this dynamic environment and help shape the future of medicine.

The Vice Dean for Research plays a crucial role within the Dean's leadership team, partnering closely with the Dean to shape and implement the College of Medicine's research strategy. This position is responsible for fostering a dynamic research environment by providing essential resources and opportunities for researchers and scholars. The Vice Dean will lead efforts to recruit, develop, and retain top-tier scientists, clinician-scientists, and research staff, thereby enhancing the college's strengths in targeted scientific disciplines.

In addition to talent development, the Vice Dean will oversee the management of the research infrastructure necessary to support a diverse and expanding scientific portfolio. This includes responsibilities for grants management, compliance, research facilities, and financial oversight. The Vice Dean will also collaborate with stakeholders to establish strategic partnerships and cultivate a culture of innovation that promotes commercialization and technology transfer. Ultimately, this role aims to elevate the research enterprise of the College of Medicine by increasing funding and advancing discovery and scholarship.

Key Responsibilities:

- Enhance research funding productivity and outcomes, evidenced by increased publications, funded research, clinical trials, and technology transfer, while spearheading the growth of the institution's research enterprise.
- In partnership with the Dean, define the structure of the Office of Research (including Associate Deans roles), provide oversight, leadership development, and foster collaboration within the College of Medicine Office of Research to ensure alignment with institutional research goals and strategies.
- Lead the development and implementation of policies, practices, support systems, and incentive programs to optimize research operations and increase external research funding.
- Build and strengthen independent, collaborative, and multidisciplinary research programs internally and outside of the College of Medicine.
- Provide strategic partnership and leadership in matters relating to research, scholarship, grant-seeking, and technology translation and transfer.
- Advise on strategic direction of the research enterprise and support infrastructure.
- Ensure fiscal responsibility, including the creation and adherence to a balanced annual budget.
