

Chief, Division of Surgical Oncology
Department of Surgery
Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center
Boston, MA

Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center (BIDMC), a major teaching hospital of Harvard Medical School, is seeking a distinguished board-certified surgical oncologist to serve as Chief of the Division of Surgical Oncology in the Department of Surgery. The successful candidate for this position may be considered for appointment at Harvard Medical School at the rank of Professor or Associate Professor, commensurate with experience, training, and achievement in the field.

Prospective candidates should have completed training in general surgery. The successful candidate must have a demonstrated track record of clinical excellence and scholarly activities with achievements in basic or clinical research. S/he must be experienced in administration and possess exceptional teamwork, program development, and teaching and mentorship abilities. Individuals with a demonstrated ability to develop research programs will be strongly considered.

BIDMC is part of Beth Israel Lahey Health, a new health care system of academic medical centers and teaching hospitals, community and specialty hospitals with more than 4,000 physicians and 35,000 employees in a shared mission to expand access to great care and advance the science and practice of medicine through groundbreaking research and education.

We are an equal opportunity employer and all qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability status, protected veteran status, gender identity, sexual orientation, pregnancy and pregnancy-related conditions or any other characteristic protected by law.

Applications are made online at <https://hmfphysicians.org/>. Please respond to requisition # R5080.