Chief Strategy Officer

University of Miami Health System invites applications and nominations for the position of Chief Strategy Officer.

The Chief Strategy Officer will be an experienced strategic planning and business development executive, charged with leading the development and execution of UHealth's external growth strategies and identifying new programs and services that will enhance UHealth's position in the market. The CSO will be a key member of the senior management team and be responsible for growing and developing relationships within the academic health system, hospital, and other related healthcare sectors. This individual will play a crucial role in meeting the strategic growth imperatives for UHealth through various channels including alliances, joint-ventures, new market and acquisition opportunities. She/he will also provide strategic guidance to the leadership of UHealth.

UHealth is the only academic health system in South Florida, a metropolitan area with a population over 6 million. Its patient base is remarkably diverse and its opportunities are truly international in scope. It recently announced that the Sylvester Cancer Center has obtained coveted NCI designation and is rapidly becoming the highest volume provider of heart surgery in the state. Fueled by the talents of the faculty of the Miller School of Medicine, UHealth has embarked on a bold strategy of building destination specialty programs while extending access by creation of striking new ambulatory centers like the Lennar Foundation Medical Center in Coral Gables which is rapidly reaching capacity. UHealth expects to open a new world-class medical center at SoLé Mia in North Miami. As the only academic center, UHealth has many opportunities to partner with community and international partners to expand its capabilities regionally and across the Caribbean and South America.

The successful candidate for this position will be an experienced and respected healthcare executive with a proven track record of growing a profitable business to strong and consistent financial performance in a competitive marketplace. Bachelor's degree required; advanced degree in business, finance, and/or healthcare management preferred.
