Search for a
Chief of Endocrinology, Metabolism & Diabetes

Applications are invited for the position of Chief, Division of Endocrinology, Metabolism & Diabetes at Nationwide Children’s Hospital, located in Columbus, Ohio. The successful candidate will be an academic pediatric endocrinologist with a record of accomplishment in clinical care, in education, and in research related to pediatric endocrinology and metabolism. He/She will have administrative experience and will have demonstrated leadership talent in earlier roles. A commitment to multidisciplinary collaboration is critically important.

The Chief is responsible for full program development and oversight, including clinical, educational and research program activities. Mentoring of junior faculty and fellows, and support for Nationwide’s Quality Improvement initiatives are notable priorities. The Division, one of 20 divisions of the Department of Pediatrics, has comprehensive programs covering the full range of endocrine disorders.

Nationwide Children’s is creating the future of pediatric health care. It is more than a hospital. It comprises 68 facilities extending across Ohio and beyond. In addition, the Research Institute at Nationwide Children’s is one of the top NIH-funded freestanding pediatric research facilities in the United States. Nationwide, one of the largest and most respected children’s hospitals in the U.S., was ranked 9th nationally in the 2015 U.S. News & World Report survey of Best Children’s Hospitals and has been repeatedly listed on the Honor Roll. The Division, ranked 13th in this most recent ranking of programs in Diabetes & Endocrinology, is poised for growth with continued investment planned for its clinical and research programs under the direction of its next Division Chief.

Candidates should have the qualifications for appointment as Associate Professor or Professor of Pediatrics at The Ohio State University College of Medicine.

Applicants may send a curriculum vitae and a brief statement of interest electronically to tricia.porter@kornferry.com or by mail to Tricia Porter; Senior Associate, Korn/Ferry International, 265 Franklin Street, 17th Floor, Boston, MA 02110.

Nationwide Children’s is an equal opportunity, affirmative action employer and values diversity among its employees. Women and minority group members are encouraged to apply.
