

University of Rochester Medical Center
Chief Clinical Officer

The University of Rochester Medical Center (URMC) is seeking a Chief Clinical Officer (CCO) to oversee clinical care across our health system, including hospitals, emergency departments, urgent care centers, and various medical facilities. The CCO will drive clinical excellence, enhance physician practice experiences, and ensure high-quality patient care for our diverse population.

As the senior clinical leader, the CCO will integrate clinical operations, promote patient safety, and establish enterprise-wide clinical standards aligned with UR Medicine's mission. This role requires strategic oversight of clinical practices, identification of best practices, and the ability to navigate a competitive healthcare landscape to deliver efficient, patient-centered care as our system continues to expand.

URMC is a leading academic health system located in Rochester, New York. It comprises nine hospitals, multiple emergency departments, 13 urgent care centers, and various medical practices, long-term care facilities, and home care services. URMC is dedicated to providing high-quality, patient-centered care, advancing medical research, and training future healthcare professionals. As a key component of UR Medicine, the center strives to enhance community health through integrated clinical services and innovation in medical practices.
