Division Chief, Cardiology (Chief) at Thomas Jefferson University Hospitals (TJUH)

Jefferson Health is seeking a transformative, innovative and collaborative leader with a strong clinical and academic foundation to serve as Division Chief, Cardiology (Chief) at Thomas Jefferson University Hospitals (TJUH).

Jefferson Health was formed in May 2015 when Jefferson and Abington Memorial Hospital, a complex regional teaching hospital, completed their initial merger. Today, with the addition of Aria Health in July of 2016 and Kennedy Health in July of 2017, the system now comprises 13 hospitals, 50+ ambulatory and urgent care centers, as well as physician practices delivering care throughout Philadelphia, southeastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware. Thomas Jefferson University Hospital is the largest freestanding academic medical center in Philadelphia.

As a leader in the delivery of cardiovascular care, the Chief will set a vision for the Division at TJUH through the advancement of clinical programs, education and research while continuing to meet and exceed national standards of excellence. The Chief will serve as a key member of the newly created Cardiovascular Clinical and Research Integrated Strategic Program (CRISP). The CRISP combines cardiovascular medicine, cardiac surgery, vascular surgery, vascular medicine and interventional radiology into a service line with a focus on the care of patients with heart and vascular disease. It is the foundation of the organization’s approach to integrated care and research, and is supported by integrated strategic and financial plans developed at the enterprise level.

The Chief is required to have an MD or MD/PHD from an accredited institution and must be board certified in Internal Medicine and Cardiology. The successful candidate will be an outstanding clinical leader with demonstrated ability to effectively inspire, manage, mentor, develop and integrate a culturally diverse Division. The Chief will serve as a leader in advancing clinical operations, transforming care delivery in cardiology and partnering with cardiac surgery in the advancement of integrated care on behalf of patients.
