

Vice Dean, Academic Affairs – School of Nursing

JOB SUMMARY:

UTMB Health is seeking a Vice Dean for Academic Affairs to provide overall administrative leadership for academic matters in the School of Nursing including new program development and approval; program quality; educational methods; national, regional and specialty accreditation; and policy development and implementation. Be part of the mission to “be the best in nursing education, research and practice” as we continue to increase our enrollment and graduate students with exceptional N-CLEX scores. Work with amazing faculty and staff at one of the top-rated nursing programs in the country. Endless opportunities abound with our recently opened, 160,000 square foot, state-of-the-art interprofessional health education simulation center – UTMB’s Health Education Center.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS:

- Terminal degree in nursing, education or related field (If doctorate is not in nursing, must have a master’s degree in nursing.)
- Ten years of experience in nursing education, academic administration and scholarship
- Experience in accreditation and legal issues related to nursing school administration
- Currently licensed or eligible for licensure as a registered nurse in the State of Texas
- Professional certification in an area of specialty practice
- Record of successful innovation
- Demonstrated ability to lead teams effectively
- Leadership role in professional nursing organizations
- Evidence of scholarship in nursing through publications, presentations, and research
