

Sunday Mornings Beginning July 14 11:00 A.M. - Noon

Author Dave Dauber writes, "This book is the result of a lot of angst within the church. I know about this angst, because I spent many of my waking hours thinking about and working within the church. While it is an exciting time to be the church, it is also a scary time to be the church. Most of the rules for being the church in our world are being called into question. Many of the rules are just plain changing. Some of the rules have already changed and no one told us, we just have to figure it out." This book is not long. This book is not complicated. But the chapters here are based on some solid, simple and practical things that every congregation needs to put into place in order to function better as Christ's ambassadors in this new time." This conversation is for both adults and youth. You're invited into this conversation! If you cannot make all the sessions, come to those you can.
