Join Us for a Free Training on September 28th!

Families who foster or adopt transracially or transculturally are confronted with a unique set of issues and concerns that require careful thought, preparation and ongoing education. Some of the issues that might arise include: selecting a school that embraces differences, educating extended family members, responding to intrusive questions, and preparing your child to confront racism. This training is designed to educate prospective and current foster and adoptive parents about the important issues involved in transracial and transcultural parenting.

About this Training:

FamilyWorks Together, in partnership with FAPAC, will be hosting a FREE TRAINING for CFSA and NCCF resource and adoptive parents. Resource parents will receive 3 training credits for participation. Pre-registration is required. Limited childcare for children ages 18 months to 14 years available until filled. Breakfast will be served.
