Dear Parents of Incoming Kindergarteners,

We hope all of you are doing well during this extraordinary time! Despite everything that is going on right now, our Boone teachers are already collaborating and planning for our inaugural year. One of the very important tasks all Kindergarten teachers value each spring is meeting with incoming Kindergarten students, informally assessing them to ascertain a general academic level, and getting a glimpse into their personalities. The information the teachers capture, along with parent input, provide us very helpful insight as we start to create balanced classrooms. As all of you know, a normal face-to-face assessment will be impossible at this time, so we have created a Boone Kindergarten Questionnaire that will allow you to provide some preliminary information about your child. Of course, when school starts in August, our teachers will be assessing students more formally to understand their strengths, areas for growth, and learning styles, but until that time, we feel confident that the questionnaire we are providing will help us tremendously.

You may also complete the Parent Input Form if you feel there are special circumstances you would like us to consider. We ask that you not make a specific teacher request, as there are many factors we consider for all students in order to create optimal learning environments for every Boone Bulldog!

Sincerely,

Amanda Reyes
