

Rosy Aburto McDonough is currently the Director of the Colorado Minority Business Office. She has extensive experience as an independent consultant, entrepreneur, trainer, and undergraduate professor. She has collaborated in various programs under the SBDC network, her specialty resides in finance, accounting, and certifications as minority, women, and veteran-owned businesses. She also collaborated in disaster recovery, Connect2DOT, and as a lead finance consultant and trainer in the areas of strategic management and business development, credit, funding, and financial analysis.

Rosy achieved her bachelor's degree in Actuarial Science (Applied Mathematics) at the Universidad Nacional Autónoma de México. Her graduating dissertation was in Risk Management. Rosy completed an MBA with emphasis in Finance and International Business at the University of Colorado at Denver. Her passion is education and she takes every opportunity to continue in this path. The latest includes a project management course that will be completed in the summer of 2017.

Rosy has an entrepreneurial spirit and as a result has owned several businesses throughout her life. Her knowledge about credit directing a credit reseller agency in the US and internationally allows her to pass on this experience to other businesses. She has over ten years of banking experience in the areas of community development, minority markets, corporate relations, credit analysis, lending, and business banking.

Rosy was born and raised throughout Mexico, under her family's military background, providing her with a deep sense of biculturalism. She spends most of her free time with her three girls and husband. Her interests include learning languages and diverse Chinese and Latin cultures and traditions.
