Business Succession & Transition Planning Workshop

With baby-boomers moving into the age of retirement, it's more important than ever to think about succession planning for your business. However, few businesses think about succession planning early enough to make the transition as smooth and profitable as possible.

This workshop covers:

- Human resource considerations
- Financial details, particularly if your plan includes generating income to live on during retirement
- Keeping your business within the family, even if one child wants to stay in the business but the others don't
- Selling the business to an employee
