

A Great Day in the Kingdom – March 19, 2021

One of the most wonderful phrases we children of God get to hear in the Kingdom is, "I don't know what this is going to be like, but I'll give it a shot." The verbiage may at times vary, but the idea is consistent with the response of calling to action. Responding can be uncomfortable, unconventional, unreasonable, unstable and even inconvenient. The Holy Spirit does not seem for the most part to be concerned about our convenience.

In the thirteenth chapter of Acts verses 1-4 Paul and Barnabas are called by God into uncharted territory, in order to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Both men respond to the call, knowing God is going to be behind their efforts. Are there ever days when you feel that in the midst of familiarity the territory you experience feels uncharted? Life is full of unexpected challenges. We never know what tomorrow will bring, yet God is with us.

Isn't that the beauty of our story? We are never alone. We, through Christ our Savior are charted, plotted and set in course for the destination of Glory. The uncertain outcomes will always be foreshadowed by the Grace and Love of God. Just as God knew Paul and Barnabas, God knows you.

PRAYER: Heavenly Father, I pray that through the power of the Holy Spirit, I am reminded that You are in control. My soul belongs to You, through Christ my Savior. Thank You, Lord for never forsaking me and help me in times of fear and trial to turn to You. In name of the Risen Christ, AMEN
