

OPCC and Lamp Community are joining together to continue the vital work of helping the most vulnerable members of our community – homeless people, victims of domestic violence, at-risk youth – rebuild their lives. We provide comprehensive, integrated mental and medical health care, substance abuse services, and permanent supportive housing so that those in desperate circumstances – many of whom are living on the streets with nowhere else to go – have the chance to regain their health, safety and dignity. Our new, combined organization will be one of the largest social services agencies committed to ending homelessness across Los Angeles County, and will be led by John Maceri, OPCC's current Executive Director.
