The politics of today create numerous challenges for many Christians trying to acquire perspective, chart direction, and retain a spirit of hope. What do we need to do to remain faithful to truths we say matter, virtues we believe count, and people we must consider our neighbors?

Peter W. Marty is editor/publisher of The Christian Century magazine, a journal devoted to shaping America's conversation about religion and public life. He is a retired ELCA Lutheran pastor who speaks and preaches at conferences and churches across the country.
