- Congress had already passed two bills in the previous three weeks:
  - The first bill, the Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental (CPPRS) (H.R. 6074), which included $8.3 billion in emergency supplemental funds for key federal agencies responding to the coronavirus epidemic, passed on March 5.
  - The second bill, the Families First Coronavirus Response Act (FFCRA) (H.R. 6201), primarily seeks to mitigate the impact on individuals with provisions on low-income food/nutrition assistance, unemployment insurance, emergency leave, and employer tax credits to partially offset the costs of required leave. It was passed on March 18.
Key Administrative and Regulatory Actions

Legal and Financial Issues

Department of Justice (DOJ)

- On March 23, President Donald Trump released an Executive Order on hoarding and price gouging of critical COVID-19 supplies. For guidance and tips on how businesses can respond if they are victims of price gouging read this A&B advisory.
- DOJ Antitrust Division and Federal Trade Commission (FTC) announced (3/24/20) they will be expediting their usual antitrust business review letter/informal opinion process on competitor collaborations to be done within 7 days (as opposed to the usual many months) of submission of information. It will be available to entities proposing to collaborate on public health projects responding to the virus, including health care providers and other suppliers of relevant goods and services.
  - On March 26, FTC Chairman Joe Simons issued a statement outlining the agency’s efforts to protect consumers during the Coronavirus pandemic. Simons also acknowledged the challenges businesses face in getting important goods and services to people across the country, and that the agency would be “flexible and reasonable” in enforcing compliance requirements. He also announced an email address for businesses seeking guidance: business.covid@ftc.gov, noting FTC staff would respond to inquiries as quickly as possible.
  - On March 25, the FTC released business guidance warning against various scams seeking to exploit companies’ concerns around COVID-19. Scams the FTC warns against include a variety of robocall and email-related phishing scams (including through emails purporting to come from company CEOs or IT departments, or government agencies), and fraudulent websites that mimic legitimate online retailers. The alert also provides advice on how companies can keep their networks safe.

The complaint was filed in the Western District of Texas by the DOJ’s Civil Division.

For a deeper dive in how federal agencies will review merger transactions during the coronavirus pandemic, read this A&B advisory. (3/19/20)

Federal antitrust agencies to extend merger reviews. On March 17, the DOJ announced (3/17/20) it will be asking some merging parties to voluntarily grant the DOJ an additional 30 days to investigate. This comes one day after the director of the Federal Trade Commission’s (FTC) Bureau of Competition posted a notice (3/16/20) explaining that parties should expect the FTC to reach out to discuss “appropriate modifications of statutory or agreed-to timing arrangements” in its antitrust investigations, while reserving the right to seek court relief if extensions are not provided. Also on March 17, the agencies began receiving federal pre-merger notification (Hart-Scott-Rodino Act) filings exclusively via electronic submission and announced (3/17/20) that no “early terminations” will be granted until further notice. Therefore, even transactions that don’t pose significant antitrust concerns cannot close before the expiration of the full statutory waiting period (typically 30 days).

  o Commercial Property Insurance: Legal actions have begun around existing commercial property insurance terms, which generally do not provide business interruption or civil authority coverage where businesses have been impacted by the pandemic and related Stay-At-Home orders and social distancing guidelines. Lawmakers are responding by looking for alternative routes around existing commercial insurance terms, o On March 25, French Laundry Partners, KRM, Inc. and Yountville Food Emporium, LLC, the operators and managing entities for three restaurants in Napa, California filed a joint complaint against Hartford Insurance Company and Trumbull Insurance Company in California state court. Plaintiffs seek a declaratory judgment that the March 18 Stay-At-Home order of the health officer of Napa County triggered coverage under their policy’s Civil Authority provisions, and that business losses are otherwise covered losses under the policy because the policy does not exclude losses incurred as a result of a viral pandemic.

  o Oceana Grill, a popular New Orleans restaurant, filed the first lawsuit (3/16/20) against its insurance carrier seeking confirmation that its commercial property insurance policy provides business interruption and civil authority coverage for claims relating to COVID-19.

  o On March 24, the Chickasaw Nation Department of Commerce and the Choctaw Nation of Oklahoma each filed separate lawsuits in Oklahoma state court against their property insurers. The Nations seek a declaratory judgment that their insurance policies cover the Nations’ business losses and expenses related to the COVID-19 pandemic and infection. These complaints follow the March 16 complaint by Oceana Grill in Louisiana state court.

  o On March 24, Ohio lawmakers followed New Jersey’s lead, proposing new legislation that purports to require insurance carriers to provide coverage for business interruption due to global virus transmission or pandemic, essentially re-writing policy language in the absence of an unambiguous exclusion. Like the New Jersey bill, Ohio’s proposal is limited to only those policies issued to insureds located in Ohio that employ 100 or fewer employees.

    o A New Jersey lawmakers introduced bill A-3844 (3/16/20), which purports to require insurance carriers to provide coverage for business interruption due to global virus transmission or pandemic, in essence re-writing policy language.

    o Massachusetts lawmakers went a step further than those in New Jersey and Ohio, proposing legislation on March 24 that purports to require that “every policy of insurance insuring against loss or damage to property, notwithstanding the terms of such policy” include among its covered perils “coverage for business interruption directly or indirectly resulting from the global pandemic known as COVID-19.” The Massachusetts bill further prohibits insurers in Massachusetts from denying a claim for business interruption coverage on grounds that COVID-19 is a virus or because there was no physical damage to property. The Massachusetts bill would apply to insureds with 150 or fewer employees.

- State regulators, including the California Department of Insurance and the New York Department of Financial Services, are directing insurers to submit data regarding coverage of commercial business interruption related to COVID-19 in an effort to assist small businesses in their respective states.

International Business and Trade

- Senate Finance Republicans urge the administration to alleviate COVID-19 harmful impact on trade policy and outlined policies which might be used to combat the economic harm caused by the coronavirus pandemic and are calling for multilateral cooperation and a “total moratorium” on new tariffs. - General U.S. government agency operations (Treasury, State, Customs and Border Protection, Commerce, and USTR). CBP will no longer take requests to defer payments of customs duties, the agency said in a CSMS message. “CBP will retain the right to allow additional days for narrow circumstances, including a physician inability to file entry or payments, due to technology outages or port closures,” the agency said. CBP briefly allowed for such deferral requests due to the COVID-19 outbreak. “Although the temporary option was provided to extend payment due dates, if the money was withdrawn from the account, these funds are legally owed to CBP and a refund will not be issued,” it said on March 26. “Trade users need to work with their financial institutions to ensure that future ACH debit and ACH credit payments to CBP are processed appropriately.”
- USTR has issued another set of product exclusions from the fourth group of Section 301 tariffs on goods from China on March 25. The new exclusions from the tariffs include “five 10-digit HTSUS subheadings and seven specially prepared product descriptions, which together cover 36 separate exclusion requests” according to the notice. The product exclusions apply retroactively to September 1, 2019, the date the fourth set of tariffs took effect. They will remain in effect until September 1, 2020.

EPA must be notified of emission exceedances.

  o Public water systems are excluded from this policy.

• EPA also issued a warning to pesticide producers, manufacturers, distributors, and importers who claim their products can be used against COVID-19: ensuring companies comply with all
