

Registration is Now Open for the 5th Asian Forum on Chronobiology (2021 AFC) & 2021 International Chronobiology Summer School

The 5th Asian Forum on Chronobiology, organized by the Chinese Society for Biological Rhythms (CSBR), Aschoff-Honma Memorial Foundation, and Henan University, will be a virtual & onsite meeting that is taking place in Kaifeng, China. Please reserve the following dates: July 14-19, 2021. The organizing committee will also host the 2021 International Chronobiology Summer School immediately before the meeting from July 13-14.

Registration for the virtual 2021 AFC and ChronoSchool is free for all overseas online attendants.

The theme of the 2021 AFC is "Chronobiology: Circadian Rhythms and Environmental Adaptation". The forum will bring together scientists from the field of Chronobiology in Asia, Europe and North America. The format of the meeting will maximize the researchers' discussion of the significance and mechanism of temporal and spatial expression of circadian oscillators. The forum will have "Keynote Session", 15-16 "Symposiums", including "Aschoff and Honma Memorial Symposium" and "Young PI Symposium". Topics will include entrainment, molecular mechanisms, hierarchical multi-oscillator coupling, differentiation, development, metabolism, sleep disorder, biotic and abiotic resistance, and so on.

Submit your abstract by May 10 for full consideration of an oral presentation. Registration is now open, and early bird registration ends May 10, 2021.

We appreciate your attention and look forward to hearing from you.
