Previously called, “Wholeness with Horses”, this is a 6-weeks support group for individuals impacted by breast cancer, including those who have recently received a diagnosis, those who are undergoing treatment, and those who consider themselves survivors.

Regardless of where they may be in the process, breast cancer changes an individuals life. Sharing experiences with others who understand, finding a community with the herd, and connecting with each other helps to process those changes. Through our six weeks together, the horses offer their presence, care, and sensitivity, as well as a chance to create a healing and authentic relationship, as we support each other on our journey to wholeness.

This program is funded through a generous grant from Boulder Community Health and is provided at no cost to participants. Donations are always welcome and appreciated.

Each session is limited to 10 participants
