

Please join us for this very special event...

Creating Trauma-Responsive Early Childhood Environments that Build Resilience and Support Healing through Play

- » Learn about the importance of play for young children's healthy learning and development.
- » Learn how to use a new tool created by the California Department of Education—a play-based continuum—to support planning and implementation of a play-based approach in early childhood environments.
- » Gain an understanding of the impact of trauma on young children's learning, development and play.
- » Learn a wide range of strategies you can use to create trauma-responsive early childhood environments that support children to cope, build resilience and heal through play.
- » Practice applying trauma-responsive strategies by engaging in several interactive activities and discussing an authentic case study example.
- » Learn about the importance of engaging in your own culturally responsive self-care when working with trauma impacted children and families.

WHEN
Saturday, March 14
9am – 4pm

WHERE
HCOE's Sequoia Conference Center

WHO
Julie Nicholson Ph.D. and Linda Perez Ph.D.
Co-Authors of the book
Trauma Informed Practices for Early Childhood Educators

REGISTRATION
Cost: $10 Includes Lunch
Register at: my.hcoe.net

INFORMATION
Cindi Kaup, HCOE
(707) 441-3912 • ckaup@hcoe.org
Spanish Interpretation Available