

Connecting Health and Home: How one CHC is Providing Home Visit Services

February 22 | 12 - 1 PM

Free Webchat

Please join the West Virginia Primary Care Association (WVPCA), along with Robert Haddix and Allyson Scott, to learn about Valley Health Care's current Home Visit Program.

The pressure for practices to provide patient-centered, comprehensive, coordinated, and accessible care is greater than ever. Extending the primary care team outside the normal clinic setting may be one solution to, not only providing enhanced access to patients, but also to help providers better understand and ultimately address patients' social determinants of health.

During this webchat, Robert and Allyson will share strategies their center is using to provide effective and efficient care for complex patients through home visits. Participants will have ample opportunity to ask questions, exchange ideas, and learn best practices.

In addition, John Kennedy, WVPCA School-Based Health Coordinator, will update participants on what the Quick Response Team in Huntington is doing regarding home visits for patients who have received Narcan and discuss what role, if any, CHCs could play in this latest effort to reduce the opioid crisis.
