Led by the Refugee Trauma and Resilience Center in Boston and in collaboration with the UCLA-Duke University National Center for Child Traumatic Stress, the NCTSN presents this webinar series designed to cover the impact of trauma on children during all phases of their migration journey. Nationally recognized speakers from NCTSN are joined by experts from the Irving Harris Foundation's Professional Development Network to provide best practices for culturally responsive and trauma-informed provision of services. This series features diverse expertise from the fields of refugee and migrant health, cultural studies, mental health, early childhood development, childhood traumatic stress, trauma-informed systems of care, and secondary traumatic stress.

Series Webinars

- Culture, the Migration Journey, Trauma and Assessment
- Culture, Development, Trauma, and Socio-Cultural Responsive Interventions with Youth Ages 7 and Older
- Attachment, Development, Trauma, and Socio-Cultural Responsive Interventions for Young Children
- Secondary Traumatic Stress: Understanding the Impact of Trauma Work on Professionals
