Employee Spotlight on Noah Tetrault

What is your role at RRF?
Inside Sales Engineer

Tell us a little about your background?
I am a Rockford native, but lived in Chicago for 8 years. Formerly, I worked as an inside sales rep for a gourmet food company that sold to high-end restaurants in Chicago and loved my job but wanted to move back to Rockford to be closer to family and all the free parking. It's good to be back.

What brought you to RRF?
A good friend of mine, Karl Koenigsberger, who is a Sales Engineer here at RRF had told me about a position that opened-up on the sales team and he thought I would be a good fit. I came in and met the team and turns out, Karl was right. I love it here.

What strengths do you bring to this job that makes you a valuable resource to your customers?
Being somewhat new to the automation field, learning agility really comes into play here. Having the ability to adapt and be flexible along with organization, attention to detail and last but certainly not least communication.

What are some key lessons you have taken from your career thus far?
Always have your ears on, so to speak. There is so much interesting and important information in this field, not to mention so many acronyms for everything in the engineering and manufacturing world, you need to write those down and look them up.

Describe some of your hobbies – what do you like to do outside of work?
If I have time to go golfing, I go fishing instead. I love the outdoors, camping, hiking, photography. Usually off for a ride on my vintage motorcycle or working on it. I love to cook, grill/smoke. It is one of my true passions.

What is one thing your customers might find surprising about you?
That I held the position of Chef Tournant at a Two Michelin star fine dining restaurant in down town Chicago.
